Voces Nostrae

In Latin, "voces nostrae" means "our voices." Over our four years of high school, each of us finds our voice. Our classmates, teachers, coaches, and experiences help to shape who the people we have become. Each of us stands at the doorstep of the next stage of our lives. Some of us are graduating, and with that we welcome the promise of tomorrow. For some, college awaits and with it, the people we have become will be made more well rounded; learning more skills and refining the old ones. For others, we will become productive members of society through our work. Others still, will serve our country in the armed forces. No matter what path we take, our years at Enfield High School will stay with us.

The theme of this yearbook is "our voices." Over the pages within you will find memories of this past year. Each memory has contributed a part of shaping who we ultimately become. We hope that as you look through this book, you will remember the people and events that have helped mold you—and those you have helped through the thoughts, words, and actions of your life.

Who We Are
by John Wisniowski

no matter how individual we've become since our first days of school where finger painting and building blocks were a curriculum,
we are categorized as one thing:
graduates.

it may seem scary
cause we know little of what our future has to offer but we've been reinforced by our education
and our common sense helps lead us down a path filled with lofty abstractions going farther than just diplomas to a whole new world of finding out who we are these stories of identities will never be complete cause there's always something new to try or experience

there's always a new tomorrow

don't waste your days away four years goes by fast.
don't forget about the cast who supported us,
friends, family, teachers,

they made us who we are today.

Dedication

The Yearbook dedication is a special honor. It recognizes the service and contributions of an Enfield High School staff member that has impacted the lives of graduating seniors. While it is always an honor to be recognized by the students, this year is very significant. It is rare for a special education teacher to be so widely known. By nature, dealing directly with such a small percentage of the whole school population, it is a testament to her good nature and hard work that Mrs. Michaels was chosen.

This year, the senior class has decided to dedicate their yearbook to Mrs. Eileen Michaels. Mrs. Michaels has been teaching in the special education department for thirty-two years. Mrs. Michaels joined the EHS staff in 1995 and is retiring at the end of this year. When asked what she will miss the most about teaching, she replied, "The kids, I really enjoy working with the kids and I'll miss them. I'll also miss my colleagues. I've had a lot of fun working with them over the years. We have a good group of people here." Her love for her students is apparent by the number of groups and activities she has been a part of over the years. She has served as a class advisor, on the junior prom committee, the mentor/mentee committee, as well as the Student Assistance Model (SAM team).

While Mrs. Michaels works with a small percentage of the student body, her contagious smiles and love for helping others makes a lasting impression on everyone who meets her. When asked her favorite subject to teach, Mrs. Michaels responded, "My favorite is the subject I am teaching at the time. Each time I tried something, I liked it." For years we have appreciated Mrs. Michaels' persistent dedication to our school, and we hope she finds our dedication to her as moving as hers has been to us.

Our Academics

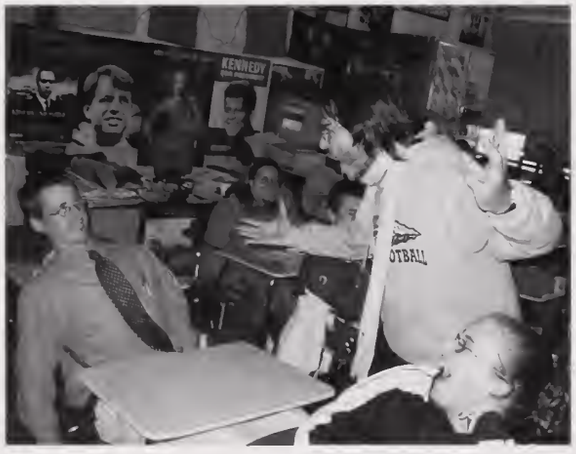

Reliving the Past...

The History Department is comprised of the most extraordinary teachers Enfield High School has ever seen. Mrs. Anyzeski's Psychology class is an adventure deep into the human mind. Mr. Crane is known for his Gaelic gusto and famed "Crane Wall". He also challenges all U. S. History students to take part in the infamous "Farm Day." Mr. DeFilipi, a.k.a. "Mr. Democracy," teamed up with Mr. Crane this year to form the Patriotic Song Club. Mr. Ellis's energetic and engaging classes keep students interested in Modern World History. The 2nd floor hall is adorned with Dr. Taylor's awe-inspiring pictures taken from around the world including Canada, Morocco, and Spain. Mr. Wanzer often explores contemporary issues that expand the minds of his students. A wide variety of classes are offered including Civics, Genocide, and Philosophy. With all of these courses and teachers with unparalleled knowledge of social sciences, history is a real joy to learn.

Don't Judge a Book...

The Enfield High School English Department is filled with teachers who possess an unmatched appreciation for the art of writing. Expressing oneself is seldom an easy task, but the educators of the English Department see that challenge as a chance to help students improve their writing skills. By taking the time to help students individually, teachers improve the confidence and strength of the students' writing. A myriad of courses is available to suit every student's writing interests. Such classes include Writing to Analyze and Persuade, Contemporary Authors, Writing and the Media, Critical Writing, and UCONN English. With so many options available, you're guaranteed to find an English class that is right for you.

Hands On Science...

Enfield High School's Science Department provides students with knowledge about important science concepts. Students are encouraged to explore theories and ideas by completing class work, performing experiments, and participating in field studies. Many exciting courses are available including Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry, Anatomy and Physiology, and Physics. The Science Department aids students in their ceaseless quest for knowledge and answers. One way the department does is by giving motivated students the opportunity to deepen their understanding of science through Advanced Placement courses in Chemistry, Physics, and Biology. With so much offered, it is no wonder the Science Department is so beloved.

Counting Down...

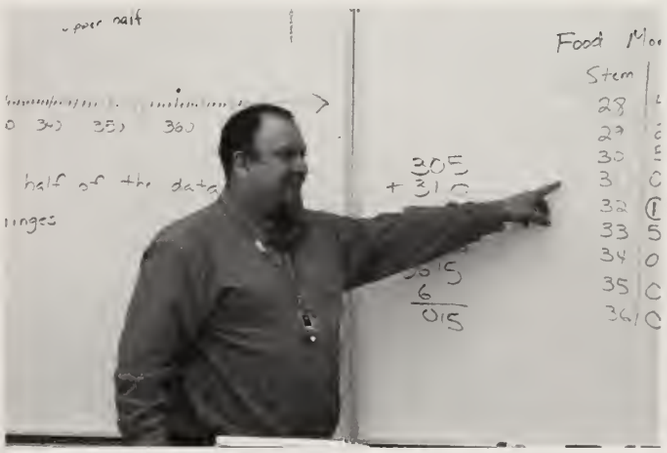

The math department at Enfield High School is always a fun and energetic group. The department offers its students a variety of courses in mathematics, varying from specific topics like SAT math, to the most advanced such as AP Calculus. Each math course teaches students how to master the abilities of their chosen course as well as to apply their studies to everyday life and problem solving. There are several teachers in the department who also encourage students to get involved in their community through various charity drives working hand in hand with the EHS community service club. From solving drawing parabolas to prepping for college, the Enfield High School Math Department is always ready and willing to solve any problem.

Around the Globe

The Foreign Language Department offers students an opportunity to learn not only different languages but also different customs and cultures as well. The Latin, French, and Spanish courses at Enfield High School not only enrich the minds of students, but also give students the chance to share some amazing experiences with incredible people. The CT-Spain Partnership was a great success this year, with twenty Spaniards visiting our school for three weeks. Ms. Thompson hopes to take a group of students on an amazing trip to France during April vacation. With events like these, it is no wonder the department is enjoyed by so many students.

Preparing for the Road Ahead...

The Enfield High School Family Living Department concentrates on teaching students how to make ready for life after high school. Mrs. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Jurgens provide students with the information and knowledge necessary to prosper in the challenging adult world. A wide variety of classes are offered in preparation for the road ahead. Such courses include Foods, Family and Society, Parent and Child Development, and Independent Living. The Family Living Department provides a better understanding of the future that lies ahead of us after graduation.

Taking Care of Business

Enfield High School's Business Department helps students prepare for the fast-paced business world that awaits them after high school. The department addresses both the technological and intellectual aspects of business by providing a wide variety of courses to choose from. Such classes include computer keyboarding, word processing, and desktop publishing. These courses educate students in presenting reports, PowerPoint presentations and designing web pages.

Jump Around...

Where can you run a mile, play a pick-up game of basketball, and engage in a classic battle of dodge ball? The Physical Education Department of course! It is the only department where fun and games are part of the curriculum. Students learn to compete, work as a team, and be physically fit through a multitude of heart-pumping activities. Such games include soccer, tennis, matball, volleyball, pickleball, badminton, and Ultimate Frisbee. The Physical Education Department does more than just exercise your body; it also works your mind. Health classes rasie awareness of health risks by educating students about how to take care or their bodies. Whether you're learning about a proper diet or you're rounding the bases, you are guaranteed to love the Physical Education Department!

Hard At Work...

At Enfield High School, the Technology Education department is always bustling with activity. The Tech Ed Department offers a variety of courses including graphic arts, photography, drafting, metal tech, wood tech, robotics, as well as auto mechanics. Courses in the Tech Ed department are designed to acquaint students with a wide selection of technological processes and keep them up to date in the world's ever-advancing industrial society. Whether working with computers, cameras or power tools, students are able to come in contact and have hands-on experience with the technology of our world.

Music Department

The Music Department of Enfield High School is known for inspiring its students to learn, whether it be to carry a tune...or to write one. The department is comprised of the most talented musicians who love to learn about music and its history, properties, and effect on everyone's life. Courses are divided as instrumental and vocal classes. Instrumental music offers students a chance to say what words cannot express. Vocal music allows pupils to sing their words and show their creativity for all to hear.

Art Department

The EHS Art Department offers a variety of courses, each designed to exercise the creative side of the mind. Through courses such as visual arts, drawing, painting, and sculpture, students can find a variety of ways to express themselves. The Art Department helps students expand their creative abilities in addition to understand the principles and elements of design. Under the sole advisement of Mrs. Nassau, the Department is responsible for contributing to the annual arts festival in April as well as holding the after school art club. Whether completing a masterpiece or building a portfolio, the EHS Art Department always provides an abundance of support.

National Honor Society

First-time advisors Mrs. Judy Nielsen and Mrs. Marge Schwab, along with Mr. Duffy, had the privilege to induct three seniors and thirty-nine juniors into the Edward J. Boland Chapter of the National Honor Society. The officers of the Chapter this year are Eric Melody as President, Rishi Kothari as Vice President, C. J. Forse as Treasurer, and Brian DaSilva as Secretary. The new members were inducted into N. H. S. on December 15, 2004. The event was a special night that none of the inductees will ever forget.

Thespians and Lamplighters

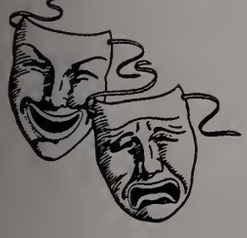

The LampLighters, the Enfield High School Drama Club, had yet another successful year full of incredible shows that left audiences talking. In addition to theatrics, the group also put on dinner shows–a memorable of fine dining and interactive entertainment. To become a thespian, one must committ a great many hours of time to the drama program. The Thespian troop has played a very active role in the community this year. The group participated in the Heritage Day fair that was held at John F. Kennedy Middle School and performed plays at the Children's Science Museum held in the cafeteria of Enfield High School.

Instrumental Music

The Enfield High School Jazz Band plays at festivals such as the Berkeley Jazz Festival, the Holyoke Jazz Festival, and other seasonal concerts. Wind Machine, Duke it Out, and Coconut Champagne are just a few of the pieces played by the jazz band this year. The group is quickly growing in size, with many of its students participating in Regionals. Mr. Jason Bouchard us quite proud of the advancement the Jazz Band has shown this year. The band's level of playing and speed of learning has greatly improved. For observers and participants alike, this year's Jazz Band has been better than ever before!

The music students of Enfield High have not let the recent budget cuts deter them from participating in the music program. The Enfield High School Marching Band performed at the Big E and several parades including the Memorial Day Parade, the Veteran's Day Parade, and the Torchlight Parade. Some of the songs featured this year included selections from Superman, Batman, and Indiana Jones. The field show presented superhero songs. The performance was amazing and garnered much applause. The Concert Band played at the Winter Concert, the Spring Concert, and a great many festivals throughout the year. The band performed Procession of Nobles, Stars, Sky, and Of Sailors and Whales.

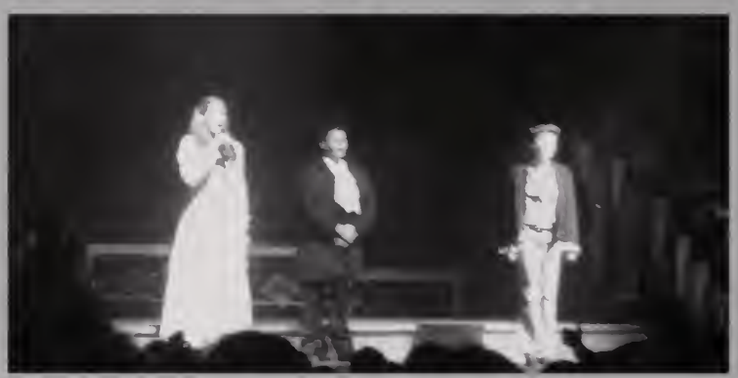

The orchestra displayed its immense talent this year by taking on such pieces as Hungarian Dance III, Shaker Variance, and Artemis Rising. These songs and more were performed at the seasonal concerts and at the Enfield String Festival. Mr. Jason Bouchard, the director of the Enfield High School Orchestra, believes that a grand future awaits our musicians. Mr. Bouchard anticipates a 60 piece full orchestra in the coming years.

Vocal Music

The vocal music programs in the school are quite possibly the biggest and best groups that involve the most students. Known for their spectacular shows, dazzling special effects, and creative costumes, Voices Inc., Common Ground, and Main Event thrill every audience they encounter. Every group makes each show very special with catchy tunes, great dancing, and immeasureable energy incorporated into the shows. Main Event gives students the opportunity to show off their dance skills in front their family and friends. Common Ground and Voices Inc. involve not only students from Enfield High School, but from Enrico Fermi High School as well. These dynamic groups entertain everyone who sees a show. If you haven't seen one of their performances yet, you have been missing out on something truly amazing.

ECHO

The Yearbook Crew

The process of creating this yearbook was one that involved a great deal of time and demanded even more effort. Daily assignments, special projects, and unexpected surprises made developing this book a challenging yet unforgettable experience. In the end, a priceless and truly memorable book was produced. This year's ECHO staff was comprised of a small number of dedicated workers. These people helped to make the ECHO 2005 edition the most original book ever created for Enfield High's students. A great many thanks go out to Lindsey Blowers, Laura Sarno, Travis Wolfel, and my aide-de-camp Sara Allen. While we did most of the work ourselves, we would have been lost were it not for two very important people. Mrs. Muskrat, your contagious enthusiam helped keep spirits high when thinds got tough. Mr. Ellis—this book could not have been created without you. You are the reason that the book is such a success. Thank you both for everything. I would like to congratulate the Class of 2005 on their graduation from Enfield High School. I can only hope that as read this book, you appreciate the effort that went into preserving the memories you'll come to cherish.

Your editor,

Megan Cooper

DECA

The Distributive Education Clubs of America is an organization whose purpose is to encourage occupational intelligence, social comprehension, civic duty, and leadership development. Every member of DECA possesses these admirable qualities. The Enfield High School chapter takes part in the annual state competition. DECA's focus is not solely on business. Known for giving back to the community, the group participates in a great number of public service activities. These include food collections, sending holiday cards to troops overseas, ans selling shamrocks to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

FBLA

The FBLA is looking for more participants! It is a professional student organization that is available to all students who have participated in a business course. FBLA is based on three main qualities: social, professional, and service. FBLA provides an oppurtunity for students tp learn about business, attend conferences, and work to develop occupational skills. Students involved in FBLA also take part in community service projects, and, occassionally, enjoy socializing by meeting new people. With so much to offer, FBLA is definitely wroth your time!

Community Service Club

The Community Service Club is at it again! This year the group held an incredibly successful can drive in December; hundreds of canned goods were donated to the Enfield Food Shelf. If that wasn't enough, the Community Service Club also took numerous donations of winter coats, hats, mittens, and scarves which were distributed to needy families in Enfield. The Community Service Club will also take part in the Relay for Life for the second year in a row with even more volunteers expected to join in the run. Mrs. Cenilgio, Mrs. Krusinski, Mrs. LaFrancis, and Mrs. Muskrat are very proud to be the advisors of the Community Service Club.

Above: Kerri Walsh and Rosi Trichilo love serving their community. Below: The Community Service Club, with advisor Mrs. Ceniglio, celebrates the success of the Canned Food Drive.

SADD & PromPromise

The SADD and PromPromise organizations aim to raise awareness of the consequences of drinking and driving. Members hope to keep students safe through motivational programs, announcements, and displays. Students can participate simply by signing the PromPromise, a vow to not drink and drive on prom night. This contract enables students to enjoy a safe and secure night with their friends.

Welcoming Committee

The primary job of the Welcoming Committee is to orient new students to Enfield High School. Working on eighth grade orientation and during open-house, the Welcoming Committee ushers students and parents around helping them locate rooms and answering questions they may have.

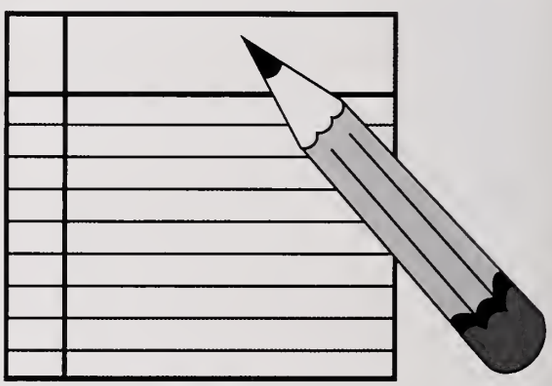

Student Council

The Enfield High School Student Council had another busy year. We kicked off the beginning of school with an immensely popular Homecoming Dance. The dance was followed by our Winter Sports Pep Rally, in which the seniors won the Chain Link contest. Spring brought the return of EHS Idol, run by advisors Mrs. Plavcan and Mrs. Nielsen. The Student Council officers include President Sara Metta-Kahn, Vice President Rishi Kothari, Secretary Kerri Fitzsimons, and Treasurer Sunny Oyeniya.

Spearhead Press

Advised by Mr. Senior, the Spearhead Press had another enjoyable year. Editor-in-Chief Jen Barry, Associate Editor Christine Hurst, Lindsey Brunelle, Josh Clouette, Mareesa Forbes, and Amy Mule serve you the news that you've been longing to know. With interesting reports on school events and special articles on current events, the Spearhead Press provides you with the information you need to stay updated.

Peer Mediation

Peer Mediation offers an alternative way of addressing disciplinary actions for students here at Enfield High. The Mediators are a group of students who care very much about the welfare of the school's pupils. By discussing solutions to problems in a friendly and understanding environment, Peer Mediation helps everyone get along better.

Unified Sports

Teachers, students, and friends join together in Enfield High School's Unified Sports. Everyone is welcome to compete in the group's two sports: volleyball and soccer. It is an oppurtunity for our diverse student population to come together and have fun!

Model U. N.

The Model United Nations Club enjoyed a successful year yet again! Representing Singapore and the Philippines, traveled to the United Nations in New York City and met with representatives from the Asian countries in November. When the disaster of the tsunami struck southeast Asia, the Model UN Club teamed up with the National Honor Society to sponsor a relief aid fundraiser. The year concluded at the Model United Nations Assembly held at the University of Hartford in January. Mr. Sean Patrick Crane and Mr. Chad Ellis serve as advisors for the Model United Nations Club.

United for Equality Movement

A great multitude of students have expressed concerns about social problems in our school community. Our response to their call is the United for Equality Movement. Our goal is to help others acknowledge other cultures, appreciate the diversity of our school, and educate others about the many dufferent customs celebrated by students at Enfield High School. Anyone who wants to help spread knowledge and equality throughout our school community is welcome to join the Movement. Ms. McGreevy, Mr. Emery, Mr. McMahon, and many other teachers are proud to be involved with this cause.

As Schools Match Wits

The As Schools Match Wits team, advised by Mr. Smith and Dr. Taylor, consists of some of the best and brightest students here at Enfield High School. Captain Laura Carey, Mary Chenard, Rishi Kothari, Rosaria Trichilo, and Kerri Walsh face off with other schools in a spirited battle of intellect. Although the team was winning in the first and second rounds, tey lost the match in the lightning round. The team is looking forward to an exciting new year and hope more students will participate.

Library Aides

Hurray for Library Aides! These intrepid volunteers work hard restocking the shelves and assisting in the library so that the resources we need are available. Ms. Ellis and Mrs. Haze enjoy working with this group of people and they appreciate the helping hands. Thanks for your work!

Literary Magazine

Now in its second year under the advisement of Mr. McMahon, the Literary Magazine has published an array of student literature including poetry, photography, and artwork. Ms. Danielle Allen's generous donation of a computer provided a great deal of help in the production of this year's magazine. Known for exposing the creative talents of our students, the Literary Magazine proudly publishes the ideas, opinions, and voices of Enfield High's students.

Latin Club

The Enfield High School Latin Club is now enjoying its third year. We began the school year by planting crocus plants around Ms. Schmitt's memorial tree. When the holiday season began, the club wrapped gifts at Barnes and Noble and raised a lot of money while doing so. After a great success with our prize-winning lectica, the Latin Club has set its sights on an even bigger project. With the help of our advisor Ms. Kell, we are constructing a chariot and with the intent of entering it into the Connecticut State Latin Day competition. With even more activities and unique experiences, this year has proven to be the most enjoyable yet!

Art Club

The EHS Art Club is a collection of the most creative and talented students. Never missing an oppurtunity to express themselves, Art Club has tackled several projects including two murals in the art room as well as assisting in the construction of the theme project in the Art Show. When not dressed in smocks and spattered with paint, the Art Club is active in fundraising and field trips. For those who love to live, learn, and have fun with art, Art Club is the place to be!

Science Club

The Science Club investigates different aspects of our natural world through investigation and experimentation. Looking into specific areas of interest, club members work together to learn more and build their knowledge and experience in science. The Science Club also works on the Spring Children's museum which brings many of the departments at EHS together. They create inetractive displays designed to teach young people about different areas of science, from biology to physics. It is always a big hit!

Ski Club

The Enfield High School Ski Club had another unforgettable year. For five weeks this winter, students boarded the bus and traveled to Ski Sundown every Wednesday. The experiences shared on these trips are sure to last forever as fond memories.

Patriotic Song Club

The Patriotic Song Club is the brainchild of Mr. Tom DeFilippi who teaches in the history department. "Mr. Democracy" has been writing songs about his love for America for a long time. Over the past several years, he has recorded a CD and began "touring" playing at Enfield's Fourth of July celebration on the town green and at the Eastern States Exhibition (the Big E). Along with Mr. Crane, who also features on the songs, Mr. Duffy, who plays the bass, Mr. Democracy has recruited some of Enfield High's most talented singers to join the club.

Christian Fellowship

The Christian Fellowship is in its first official year at EHS. The group began as a suggestion by a student after the annual prayer at the flagpole, an event that occurs across the country each year. The club provides a place for young people to share their faith, have fun, learn, and grow in a supportive environment. Members of the group conceded that it can be difficult to grow up holding to one's faith. Several members explained that they have experienced discrimination or been ridiculed because of their beliefs. Blaine Fisher, a Senior member of the group confided "You have to expect some persecution. We are taught to expect and accept this treatment and to use those experiences to strengthen our commitment." The Fellowship is open to all members of the Enfield High community, regardless of their religious affiliation. Mr. Barnes, the faculty adviser, noted, "Some people at first thought we were exclusive or that we only wanted certain people. The truth is, we are open to every one. All are welcome."

Fencing Club

This is the first year for the fencing club at EHS. It all began with an offhand remark, made mostly as a joke by Kevin Wilhelm and Megan Cooper. In a conversation with some friends after lunch, The pair commented that they wanted to learn how to fence. Mr. Ellis, serving on lunch duty, was standing nearby. Ellis, who fenced in college, overheard the conversation and told them that if they bought the equipment, he would teach them how to fence. The rest, as they say, is history.

The fencing club learns the fundamentals of foil fencing. Weekly lessons cover basics of footwork, defense and offense. The group's membership is small with only four members. The equipment can be expensive, and the space needed to practice is limited, but despite this, the club has turned out to be a committed group.

Connecticut-Spain Partership

The Connecticut-Spain Partnership consists of twenty kids from Valladolid, Spain. During their stay in the United States, the Spaniards took advantage of their chance to see and explore Connecticut and other parts of New England. When they were here they attended classes, made friends, and enjoyed outings with their host families and friends. The kids visited the Boston Science Museum, Quincy Market, and Sturbridge Village in Massachusetts. In Connecticut, our guests took a cruise on the Connecticut River. The Spaniards even went to Ocean Drive, a well-known section of the historic district in Newport, Rhode Island. Many kept a journal of the many memories they did not want to forget. The twenty foreign students made a huge impact on everyone. Mrs. Dalpe said, "They made a 'rippling effect' like a pebble that is thrown into a pond. The Spanish students did not just effect the students they lived with, but also the host families, the teachers, and the community."

Bringing Two-worlds Together

Ayana Ueruma and Jade Pungvongsanurak display their cultural dress at the Heritage Day Fair.

"A year to always remember..."

This year Enfield High School was honored to have two foreign exchange students stay and experience a year in the United States. Both Ayana Uemura from Japan and Jade Pungvongsanurak from Thailand were able to live the American lifestyle while studying English and making new friends. While living in the states, Ayana and Jade traveled throughout historical New England and immersed themselves in American culture. The two friends have made memories that will last a lifetime and they hope to be able to return someday to visit everybody.

Our Athletics

Football

It was a trying season for our Raiders. The 2004 season was a re-building year after the team graduated a large number of seniors. The final statistics, however, do not adequately reflect the courage, heart, and determination with which our Raiders played each and every game. "Numbers just show the end...they don't explain how you got there." The team had many players who have earned respectable honors. Patrick Jubrey made All-League, Matt Barry and Gabrielle Yelez won Most-Improved, Geoffrey Weldon was the best Defensive Player. Dominque Lindo won the 3D recognition. The D's stand for "Dedication, Desire, Discipline." The team looks forward to using this season's experiences as a foundation for a better season next year.

The Enfield High School Varsity Boys' Soccer Team of 2005.

Boys' Soccer

The Enfield High School Boys Varsity Team had improved a great deal from the previous season. The boys improved not only on fundamentals, but on teamwork and cooperation as well. The team owes a great deal of their success to Jeremy Scheer and J. J. Rousseau. While both players made All-Conference, Scheer went on to make All-State and was selected for the Senior Bowl. The team, while very proud of its graduating seniors, anticipates an even better season next year.

Girls Soccer

The Enfield High School Girls' Varsity Soccer team was comprised of the most determined and dedicated players imaginable. Neither injuries nor bad weather could stop the Raiders from out-running, out-playing, and out-working every team they met. It is this perseverence that led to the development of not only their skills, but of their character as well. Congratulations to the graduating seniors, you have no idea how much pride you bring to the school.

The Enfield High School Varsity Field Hockey team of 2005.

Field Hockey

The Enfield High School Field Hockey team persevered through a long, hard season. All players did extremely well in the competition in Maine; it gave the girls a chance to really bond as team. Though the team's final record of 7-8-2 is an impressive one, it does not begin to illustrate the immense talent that team possessed. Cassie DaSilva, Christine Grady and Jessica Lance were All-Conference, and both DaSilva and Grady were All-State as well. With many players returning next year, the team is looking forward to a bright future.

Boys' Basketball

The Boys' Basketball team had a strong season, coming off of their State Championship year. Having lost a number of talented players last year, this year's Seniors really filled the void, providing excellent leadership to the younger players. Coach Thomas and his team played tough, fought hard, and won often, making it deep into the state tournament. Thanks to Coach and the boys for another great season. Good luck to the Seniors. You've given us a lot to be proud of.

Girls' Basketball

The Enfield High School Girls' Basketball team is quite possibly the toughest group of women you will ever meet. The team always gave it their all by out-running, out-shooting, and out-working each and every opponent. If a loose ball was on the floor, all you would see was five green jerseys scrambling to get it. The girls prided themselves on their mastery of fundamentals. They worked to perfect every aspect of their game, including dribbling, passing, and footwork. It is due to all of this hard work and dedication to the game that the girls achieved all they did. Congratulations to the graduating seniors–you are an inspiration to the next generation.

Ice Hockey

The Enfield High School Varsity Ice Hockey team celebrated a truly phenomenal season. With a final record of 15 wins and 4 losses, the Raiders were dominant in their conference. A large part of the team's success is due to the leadership exhibited by the seniors. Thank you, seniors, for leading our Raiders to so many victories. It wasn't just the seniors that contributed to the team effort. Every player had something special to contribute to every game. The team will use this year as a strong building block for an even better season next year. Congratulations to all of the seniors; we will miss you.

Softball

The Enfield High School Softball team had yet another fantastic season. Each and every girl put forth her best effort and it really paid off. The team worked, played, and bonded together. They were no longer just a team, but rather a family. A family that loved and understood each other and shared the same love of the sport. The team looks forward to next season, when they can build on this solid foundation of camaraderie and support. Congratulations to the seniors–you will be greatly missed.

Tennis

The Enfield High School Boys' Tennis team was comprised of a group of dedicated athletes who strove to better themselves. These boys have worked harder than any other team to accomplish all that they did. The team met daily on the tennis courts, and if there was rain, they moved the practice inside. Nothing could keep the team from doing their best and fulfilling their potential. The boys' tennis team proved their worth to not only us, but themselves as well.

The Enfield High School Girls' Tennis team had a very productive season. The girls worked hard to better basic skills including volleys, both front and backhand strokes, and serves. Not only did those skills improve, but the team strove to improve their footwork and team cooperation. In the end, everyone developed...not only as players and competitors, but as people as well.

A Look Back On

Congratulations Class of 2005!

Riley's School of Dance

Nichelle,

You were an adorable little girl who grew up to be a beautiful woman who exudes confidence and a love for life.

May all your dreams come true!
Love ya so much,
Mom

As a parent you can't help but wonder how your children will turn out. I have been truly blessed with a daughter who is not only beautiful, but smart and well rounded. When she puts her mind to it, she can put on a beautiful dress, do up her hair, and look like a runway model. 24 hours later she can be covered in mud, flying through the air on a motocross track.

Nikki, never let someone tell you that you can't do something. You've proven time and again, that if you work hard enough you can do anything. "They" are always wrong when "they" say you can't accomplish anything you care to pursue. Keep proving them wrong. I am so proud to have you as my daughter.
Love,
Dad

Dad, Paige, and Brianna

Congratulations Amy!

Through life you will encounter many bumps and obstacles in the long and winding road. Think of these as stepping stones to the future.... Follow your heart and reach for the "stars". The sky's the limit. Dreams do come true. We are all very proud of you. Good luck wherever your dreams take you.

Love,
Dad, Mom, & Erin

Good morning yesterday
You wake up and time has slipped away
And suddenly It's hard to find the memories you left behind Remember, do you remember the times of your life?

Love,
Your family
